

DurhamWorks Employer Engagement Officer Transcript

[Animation] A seated male character, his back facing the viewer, slides into frame. He is sitting at a computer desk. There is an ominous red filter cast over the video.

[Voiceover] Still trying to get a job on your own without help or support?

[Animation] A closeup of the character's hands typing frantically on a keyboard, '?' and '@' keys come loose and land on the desk.

[Animation] Closeup of the computer screen, the character types 'Can I get a job please?' into an email, clicks to send the email. This process repeats and gets more frantic until 99 emails have been sent.

[Voiceover] Is that not working out for you?

[Animation] The character holds his phone in hand, opens the email app, and receives multiple emails with the subject 'Unsuccessful'.

[Animation] A living room, a male character laying on the couch, letters come through the front door and fall to the ground. A character holds it out in front of them, again the subject is 'Unsuccessful'.

[Voiceover] Do you know that DurhamWorks has Employer Engagement officers who are dedicated to help young people like you, aged between 16 and 24 and living in County Durham find work?

[Animation] The DurhamWorks logo appears on screen outlined by a traced map of County Durham. The ominous red filter fades to away. The same male character from the animation slides back into frame sitting at the same computer desk.

[Animation] Zoom into the computer monitor, emails with the subject 'Interview Invitation' flood the inbox.

[Voiceover] Our Employment Engagement Officers have contacts in companies throughout County Durham.

[Animation] A map of County Durham appears on the computer monitor, red pins marking various locations around the county drop onto the map.

[Animation] The character holds out their phone, they receive a notification which reads 'Interview invitation'. A group of people gather around the character's computer desk, his co-workers at his new job. The character we've been following shakes the hand of their new employer.

[Voiceover] If you're struggling in your job hunt, contact DurhamWorks for free help and support.

[Animation] The character holds their phone out, they receive a notification that reads 'Job Offer'. Golden confetti bursts from the phone.
